QUOTE OF THE DAY

"The most precious gift we can offer anyone is our attention." – Thich Nhat Hanh

"I always wanted to be somebody. If I made it, it's half because I was game enough to take a lot of punishment along the way and half because there were a lot of people who cared enough to help me." – Althea Gibson

"Remembering that I'll be dead soon is the most important tool I've ever encountered to help me make the big choices in life. Because almost everything — all external expectations, all pride, all fear of embarrassment or failure — these things just fall away in the face of death, leaving only what is truly important. Remembering that you are going to die is the best way I know to avoid the trap of thinking you have something to lose. You are already naked. There is no reason not to follow your heart." – Steve Jobs

"Cultural shifts happen on a different level; they come into view only when we step back enough to see a bigger picture changing over time. A newspaper photograph viewed through a magnifying glass may appear only as tiny dots. When it seems as if our lives and choices are like those dots, it can be difficult to recognize their contribution to a bigger picture of change." – Joanna Macy

"More noise occurs from a single man shouting than a hundred thousand who are quiet." – José de San Martín

"You do not lead by hitting people over the head. That's assault, not leadership." – Dwight D. Eisenhower

"I put my heart and my soul into my work, and have lost my mind in the process." – Vincent Van Gogh
